IT'S SAND CASTLE TIME again, and this Sunday, amateur architects will converge on the beach at Carmel to construct their masterpieces for the enjoyment of it and to vie for prizes. This years' theme will be "At That Point in Time, and, To the Best of My Recollection." Shown here are two photos of a previous Sand Castle Contest, taken by amateur photographer Owen Patrick. The contest is open to everyone and to all ages.

BOB WOOD REPORTS:

By BOB WOOD
Monterey County Assemblyman

The Governor's recent rough "law and order" report calling for a wide-range overhaul of California law enforcement including, among other proposals, mandatory prison terms for criminals carrying guns or selling heroin is something worth considering.

The 164-page report was submitted for consideration to the Democratic-controlled Legislature with the statement that a massive increase in crime has come about during "a golden age of permissiveness" in society. What the Democrats will do to supplement the report with legislation is something we will just have to wait and see. Among the principal recommendations were:

-- Criminals using guns would go to prison.

-- Mandatory prison sentences for those convicted for possession of heroin for sale.

-- Pass a law making it a misdemeanor to drive a car when a person has 0.10 alcohol content in his blood regardless of the individual's ability to perform brief balance and co-ordination tests.

-- Abolition of the so-called "exclusionary rule" which is used too often by criminals to avoid prosecution. This rule has provided that evidence obtained by "unreasonable search or seizure" cannot be used in a trial.

These reforms can offer the promise of a major step forward in efforts to keep the people of California safe and free. All or most of these recommendations will undoubtedly have the support of the law enforcement agencies and groups throughout the state, and I am sure they will include the support of your Assemblyman.

Enuff for now .....BOB WOOD

P.S. I think all of us have met someone on the street that we haven't seen for a few weeks, but for the life of you, you can't remember their name. You end up usually greeting them with a, "Hi, How have you been, Sure glad to see you, and be sure to say hello to your wife and family." But as you walk on, you suddenly wonder if the man did have a wife and family. Well, don't feel bad, forgetfulness happens to all of us. It happens to me quite often, but yesterday I really began to think that I had begun to lose my marbles. If you remember, I told you in the Bob Wood Remarks Column of two weeks ago that I had undergone surgery and they plugged up my straight pipe connection and had given me a colostomy or a release valve on my left side, where the manifold usually rests. Well, it happened over a month ago, but after 57 years you pick up certain habits that are hard to get rid of. One of mine was grabbing the sports sheet; heading for the "john;" locking the door and enjoying the complete privacy of reading about our San Francisco Giants, before having to return to the pandemonium of our State Legislature. Yesterday, the wife had gone down town and no one was home except the dog and me and I unconsciously grabbed the sports sheet; went into the privacy of the bathroom; sat very gingerly down on the stool and started reading about the fact that San Francisco traded off Willie McCovey, when I suddenly realized that the throne I was sitting on was not equipped to handle my type of plumbing. I sheepishly arose and unconsciously flushed the "john" out of habit alone I guess, for certainly there was no other reason. When I walked out of the bathroom, I was glad my faithful dog was the only one around to see how absent minded his master had become.

A COLUMN

SUPERVISOR CHAIRMAN Ellis Tavernetti raised a good point this week at the board of supervisors meeting when the board was accused of telling people to, in effect, stay away from the meetings and submit any input they may have on any matter in written form.

Tavernetti appeared shocked at the accusation, and told the audience that he had never made such a statement, and believed none of his fellow board members had done so either.

They all agreed, each saying they had never made a remark which resembled the accusation.

What Tavernetti did suggest was, to avoid confusion and misinterpretations, to present any input to the board of supervisors in the form of written statements. He did not say, "stay away."

The suggestion Mr. Tavernetti presented has several merits which should be considered by the public.

First, by submitting written statements of facts which may have valuable information, these facts will become an official part of the final ruling handed down by the board on important matters. Verbal statements may become misinterpreted or even overlooked when decisions are made by the board.

Secondly, by presenting written statements for the board's consideration, we save valuable time for both the board of supervisors and the public.

We, the taxpayers, pay our supervisors' salaries and it appears a waste of our money and their time for them to have to sit for hours listening to redundant presentations by concerned groups and individuals opposed or for a particular matter being considered.

A case in point can be illustrated by describing in part a situation which occurred this week during two public hearings concerning an appeal on a decision to accept an Environmental Impact Report, and the application for a use permit to construct a motel complex at the mouth of Carmel Valley by Donald Meharry.

The audience was asked, as it was two weeks prior when the matter was being considered, to limit comments on the matter to information pertinent to and may be important in the board's final decision. In making the suggestion to the audience, Supervisor Tavernetti urged speakers not to make unnecessary comments, or remarks of personal opinions and attitudes.

His request fell on deaf ears, as speaker after speaker repeated statements already presented by others in the audience. The result product was a public hearing which lasted over three hours before the board was able to make a decision on the two matters. This, it appeared, could have been acted upon in much less time.

Many of the arguments, both pro and con, were ill prepared or were for an individual's or group's personal gain, loss or concern, and not for the benefit or detriment of the interest of the developer, private individuals or the majority of the public.

One member of the audience arrived at the public hearing after the meeting had already started, and addressed the board delivering several remarks which had already been discussed and argued. He was told by one member of the board that the subject had already been reviewed, and was told to "direct your attention to the next item on the agenda.

"You don't know what you are talking about," the speaker was told.

The supervisor's suggestion was ignored, as the same speaker returned to the podium two hours later and began speaking on matters entirely irrelevant to the subject being discussed, and repeated statements he had made earlier.

Getting back to the remark made to Tavernetti accusing him and other board members that he or one of them stated more or less to don't come, just send letters, was grossly in error. The remark cast a shadow on the board's image of being in a non-partisan position and its responsibility to the public's interest.

The Carmel Valley Outlook was represented at the board meeting at which the statement was allegedly made by Tavernetti and this reporter did not hear any comment which may have resembled the remark.

Misinformed remarks, irrational statements, and repeated statements only tend to fog and prolong public hearings.

We feel the public could better be served fairly and the wheels of governmental operations--best serving the public's interests--and fairness in governmental decisions by urging our supervisors to expedite their rulings on matters before them, after carefully studying and weighing the merits of each issue.

The board is charged with the preservation of the future of our county. Members are mandated by the voters, and responsible to the public for their actions. They are only human, and they make errors in judgment as we all do.

They invite and need public input and participation in their efforts to best serve the public. They need our help and cooperation.

But we, the public, must be objective in our group or individual presentations.

We urge all of us to help keep them honest and dedicated and working for the good of the county. Let's help them help us.

The regular quarterly luncheon-meeting of Alpha Phi Monterey County Alumnae Chapter will be held on Saturday, November 10th, in the Outrigger Restaurant, 700 Cannery Row, Monterey, at noon, preceded by an 11:30 a.m. social gathering.

Reports from Alpha Phi Executive Office, a visit with the District Alumnae Chairman, Mrs. E.C. Patton, of San Mateo, and future plans will be included on the afternoon's agenda. Rummage donations are also requested for a later dated event.

Information and reservations for the November 10th occasion are available, by Nov. 8 or 9th if possible, through Mrs. F.C. Mac Farlane, 375-5021, or Mrs. E.C. Styskel, 624-8261. All new and visiting members are cordially invited to this Alpha Phi meeting.

Holiday Potpourri, sponsored by the Carmel High School Band Booster's Club, will be held Saturday, Nov. 10 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., in the Carmel High School cafeteria.

The annual event is a fund raising one to support student activities at the high school.

A variety of Christmas gifts will be on sale to the public. Other items for sale will include baked goods, Thanksgiving treats, holiday decorations, Christmas wrap, table decorations and original hand-crafted items.

Hidden Valley Music Seminars will sponsor a series of special Children's Films on Saturday afternoons in Carmel Valley. The series begins Saturday, Nov. 3, with the celebrated British film, "Melody," acclaimed by Parents' Magazine as "truly splendid."

The second in the series will be "Born Free," the well-known storyof Elsa the lioness, and will be shown Saturday, Nov. 17. All films will begin at 1 p.m. in the Hidden Valley theatre at Carmel Valley and Ford Road. Tickets for both children and adults will be 75 cents. Seating will be on a first-come, first-served basis with space available only for 200, so please be prompt.

"West Side Story - Mexico to Alaska," a full length color motion picture by Walter H. Berlet, is the Audubon Wildlife Film to be presented at Pacific Grove Junior High Auditorium, Monday, Nov. 5, at 8 p.m.

Following the sun from south to north, Berlet travels the western coast of North America, from the Tropic of Cancer to the Pribilofs, capturing with his camera changes in wildlife populations and activities. In the tropics of Mexico the military macaw and the jaguar are constant residents and are left behind as other birds migrate north.

guides for consumers

"Guides for Consumers" is the title of a series of talks arranged by the Alliance on Aging in cooperation with Monterey Peninsula College to be given at 11 a.m. on five consecutive Mondays beginning Nov. 5, at the Salvation Army Building, Hoffman and Belden Streets, Monterey.

These talks should be of particular interest to all retired persons. Speakers who are authorities in the fields of consumer protection and crime prevention will provide information and answer questions.

The talk will be from 11-12:30 followed by lunch at a charge of $1 (or bring brown bag lunch). Reservations should be made by calling 373-2335 by 4 p.m. the Friday before each Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Aloys E. Nicholson of Scarlett Road, Carmel Valley, will be coordinating this series of talks of especial interest to retired persons.

Five Monterey Peninsula District Cub Scout packs will participate in the annual Cub Scout Pow Wow at the Alisal High School in Salinas on Saturday, Nov. 3 from 11 a.m. top 5:45 p.m.

Crafts, games, Webelos, pack administration and skits-puppets, and ceremonies are the five main sections of the Pow Wow. In addition there will be a midway of games and exhibits planned by Ms. Jean Kochems of Monterey. It is suggested that a sack lunch be brought to the Pow Wow.

The event is open to all cubmasters, den leaders, assistant leaders, and interested parents. Registration is $1.50 and should be mailed to Boy Scouts of America, P.O. Box 1967, Salinas, Calif. 93901.

Road bypass proposed

Village recommendations accepted

A LIST OF RECOMMENDATIONS prepared by the Carmel Valley Village Study Advisory Committee was officially accepted by the board of Supervisors Tuesday, which included the endorsement of a northern east-west bypass of the Carmel Valley Village which would be routed through the existing air strip.

William Brown, president of the advisory group, and also president of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, presented the list, and said the group had been meeting at least every two weeks since July, and had also been working closely with the planning department and other county agencies.

Brown reported that the proposed bypass would establish an "efficient and effective method to serve the Valley Village and provide a bypass for future development east of the Village. The future bypass will reduce traffic in the Village and prevent unnecessary widening of the road through the Village as well, to allow the Village to retain its rural and locally oriented commercial center."

Other recommendations made by the Study Advisory Committee were:

That a connecting road be constructed between Paso Hondo Road and Esquiline Road.

The connecting road would provide an alternate route in the Carmel Valley Village to serve the Robles Del Rio area. The route would aide traffic flow and provide an access and egress safety factor.

That, subject to Health Department requirements, and only if a maximum density of six units per acre is not exceeded, that the following presently zoned commercial areas in the Carmel Valley Village be available for optional commercial or multi-family development.

Approximately 17 acres, which includes all of the commercially zoned area east of Esquiline Road and bordered on the north by Carmel Valley Road.

2. Approximately 6 acres of commercially zoned property between Ford Road and the existing airstrip.

3. Approximately 19 acres, which includes all of the commercially zoned property west of Pilot Road and north of the Carmel Valley Road.

The recommendation would define the commercial areas on the perimeter of the Valley Village where rural, garden type multiple family dwelling would be considered an alternate for development. The remaining presently zoned commercial property would be recognized as vital to the development of a central business core area, and would not be declared available for optional multi-family development.

"The Advisory Committee on April 9, 1973, recommended that the commercial property which was not recommended for optional multiple family use be placed in a Planned Commercial District, and that landscaping be added to design approval in C-1 zoning," the report stated.

"The Monterey County Zoning Ordinance 911 was amended on June 5, 1973, to add special regulations in "C-1" Districts when combined with a "D" District. It is the opinion of the Advisory Committee that the regulations will provide for landscaping as originally requested, and due to the significance of the amendment in planning, it is the consensus of the committee that it is not necessary to recommend Planned Commercial Zoning in the Valley Village."

Rezoning decision

A decision by the county planning commission that no environmental impact report is required in the rezoning of approximately 8,000 acres in Upper Carmel Valley and between Los Laureles Grade and the Aguajito area of Monterey was accepted this week by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors.

The planning commission's decision was rendered on Oct. 10, and the rezoning matter had been reopened by supervisors after the Carmel Valley Property Owner's Association questioned the legality of the earlier environmental finding. Also questioning the decision was the League of Women Voters and the Sierra Club.

It was ruled by the planning commission that the rezoning of the area in question into transitional one-acre building sites would not have any significant environmental effect. The planning department had recommended 2.5-acre building sites, requiring no environmental impact report.

Included in the area involved is the 2,200-acre Berta Ranch in Upper Carmel Valley, and the Hidden Hills, Laguna Seca Ranch, Work Ranch, and property owned by Del Monte Properties, Inc.

Two members of the board, both attending a county supervisors' meeting in Redding, prompted the postponement of a scheduled public hearing on appeal by several property owners in the Carmel area from a decision of the Zoning Administrator granting a use permit for construction of 162 units, convention facilities and ancillary facilities to Meharry Development Company.

The public hearing was scheduled for 2 p.m., Oct. 30.

CVPOA directors meet Nov. 7

Nominees for officers for the coming year have been announced by the board of directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association. Additional nominees for officers and directors will be accepted by the C.V.P.O.A. until Dec. 1, and the board of directors is hopeful the nominations will be presented at the next board meeting.

The meeting will be held at the Carmel Valley Community Center on Ford Road, Nov. 7, starting at 8 p.m.

Those presently nominated are: President, William Brown, incumbent; Vice President, Delores Anderson; Secretary, Marian Engstrom, Treasurer, Richard Kruger.

Board of director nominees are Herb Sherman, Mid-Valley; John Sigourney, Carmel Valley Village; Don Harrison, Rancho Rio Vista; Dianne Norrby, Carmel Valley Village; Bill Zeleny, Country Club Drive; Slator Miller, Del Mesa; Oliver White, Country Club Drive; John Broberg, Carmel Valley Village, and Lin Eldridge, Upper Valley.

Five directors will be elected by the general membershp to fill the vacancies of five outgoing members.

Remaining on the board will be Betty Wilson, Victoria Gibson, Mike Tancredi and Robert Marble.

Delores Anderson, secretary of C.V.P.O.A., will present a report at the Nov. 7 meeting on a recent inspection trip to South Tahoe. Mrs. Anderson viewed a refuse disposal compacing site at South Tahoe. Carmel Valley officials are presently studying the feasibility of constructing a similar site at the end of Shulte Road.

Also to be discussed will be Water Quality Control hearings, a sanitation committee report and the matter of smog in the Valley.

The general membership is urged to attend the meeting.

Consumer warning on meat sales

The Monterey County Department of Weights, Measures and Consumer Affairs has received complaints from residents who have been approached by vendors selling frozen steaks and other meats.

The vendors have been contacting employees of businesses and private individuals offering meats which are "prepared for restaurants" and are "portion-controlled". Wholesale price savings are implied. The meats are offered at a price per box of so many portions (example: a box of 20 7 oz. rib eye steaks for $27.50).

Consumers are advised to exercise good buying practices and demand the same information that is available at local meat markets. To buy wisely, the price per pound and the quality grade of the product is needed information.

In the example above, rib eye steaks of unknown quality sold for over $3.10 per pound.

Meharry development is halted

By BOB KENNEDY

MONTHS of public hearings, studies and meetings culminated Tuesday night with the reversal of an earlier decision to grant a use permit for a proposed motel complex in the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center.

The proposed Meharry 162-unit motel which would include a beauty shop, barber shop, magazine and tobacco shop, coffee shop with a seating capacity of 85, cocktail lounge with a seating capacity of 45, kitchen, meeting rooms with a total capacity of 400, two swimming pools and parking facilities, had earlier received approval for a use permit.

But several individuals and organizations opposed the project, and appealed the county planning commission's decision. The appeal came before the board of supervsiors Tuesday on the same agenda with a final environmental impact report (EIR) on the proposed Meharry Motel complex located at the mouth of Carmel Valley near Highway 1 and Rio Road.

Following a lengthy debate by interested members of the audience, and heated discussion, the board of supervisors accepted the environmental impact report, but the approval of the motel complex was far from being granted.

Discussion on both the EIR and use permit occupied the supervisors' agenda from 1 p.m., until nearly 7 p.m.

Passionate presentations were made by property owners and organizations which included the League of Women Voters, Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, the Carmel Area Coalition and others. The opposition to the EIR and use permit argued that the motel complex would create environmental problems which included air pollution, traffic congestion, an adverse aesthetic affect on the area, a further drainage on the alleged water shortage on the Peninsula, and traffic hazards.

Supporting the proposed project included the Lower Carmel Valley Advisory Committee, several Carmel Valley residents, the Monterey County Public Works Department, (with certain conditions if approved), Carl Hooper, engineer representing the firm of George Bestor and Associates, the developer, Don Meharry, Clyde Sturges, Monterey Peninsula motel owner, and other private individuals.

"I feel we have a real fine project here," developer Meharry said, "and I hope you people will approve it."

Meharry added that he is negotiating with the Public Utilities Commission and if he is unable to contract water with them, "there will be no building, gentlemen."

Meharry was told that the PUC was expected to hand down a decision within four months whether or not there is in fact a water shortage on the Peninsula, and it was suggested that the hearing be continued until the findings were rleeased.

Through his attorney, Meharry said he wanted a decision immediately. "It's go or no go," he said.

On a 3-2 decision, the board of supervisors voted to uphold the appellate decision, and reverse the planning commission's ruling to allow the use permit. On a motion by Supervisor Willard Branson, seconded by Supervisor Roger Poyner and an additional yes vote by Supervisor Warren Church, the appeal for denial was approved.

Branson, during the discussion period, appeared in favor of upholding the approval of the use permit, and was the member of the board who motioned to accept the EIR. He defended the developer's rights to build on his own property as long as it was in conformity with the present zoning, which the 11-acre parcel is.

"It seems like we've been here before," Branson mused. "What some opponents are saying is, 'Don't build anything, any place,' that those people feel they want to hold the area in trust for those who own property -- for those who now hold jobs."

"It's somewhat ironic," Branson noted, "that two of the speakers weren't even here when the property was zoned."

The 11-acre parcel was zoned R-3-D-B-4 by the board of supervisors on Oct. 7, 1963, which entitled its owners to construct a motel complex with the priviso that a use permit was granted.

The board, however, acting on information enclosed in the EIR, which was required by the zoning administrator and prepared by the planning department staff, chose to overrule the planning department's decision to grant the use permit.

"I have no choice," Branson told the audience, "I will have to vote to grant the request and deny the permit. It's regretable. I cannot continue to approve requests until the water and air situation is solved."

Poyner, agreeing with Branson added, "I look at it as being in the right place at the wrong time."

Supervisor Atteridge commented that he would be willing to grant the use permit when and if the PUC determines there is ample water on the Peninsula to serve all prospective users.

"This is not an unfavorable addition to the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center," he said.

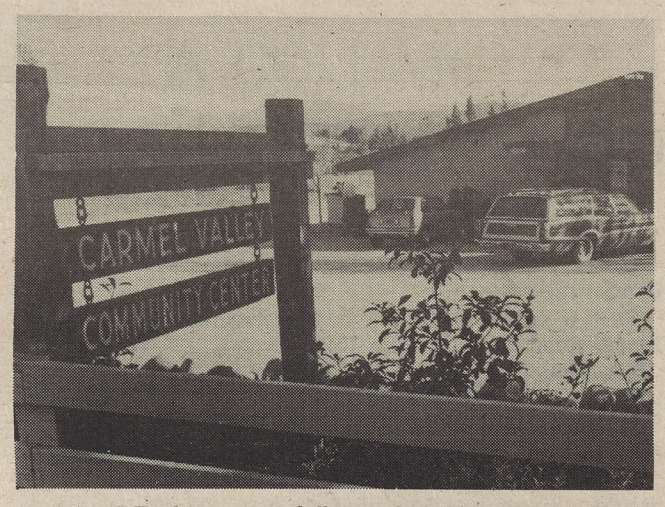
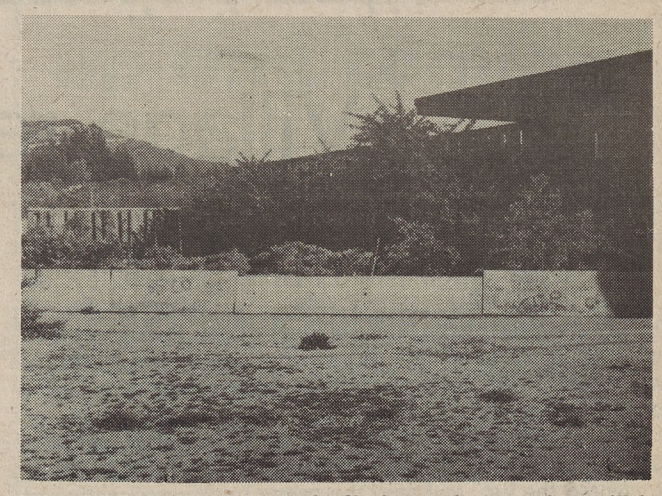
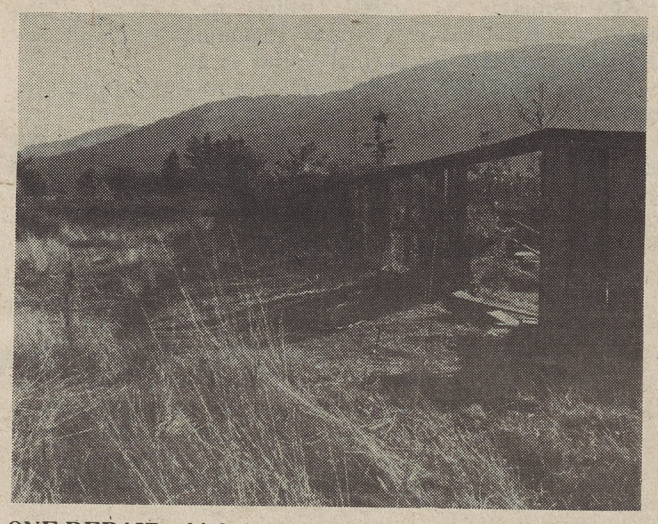
Community Center repair time



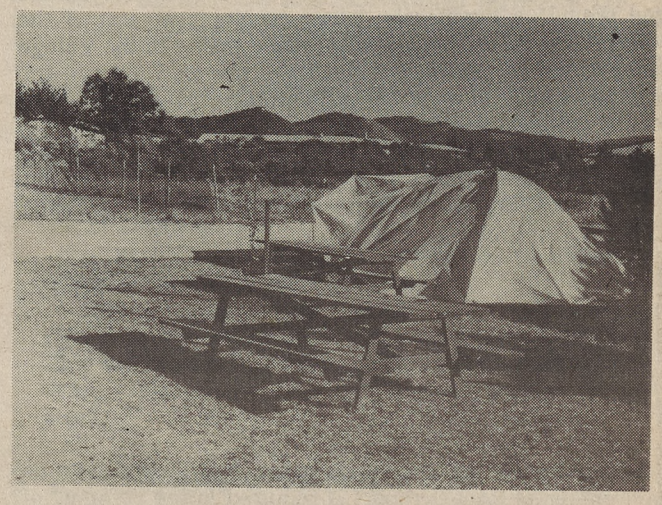
IT WILL BE clean up and fix up day this Saturday at the Carmel Valley Community Center on Ford Road. Valley residents are invited to bring brooms, shovels, paint brushes, hammers and nails and what have you to help fix up the Center. Photos by Randy Chappell.



THIS RETAINING WALL, badly in need of repairs, will be replaced this Saturday at the Center by work volunteers who will install odd-length pieces of telephone poles which have been donated for the project. Volunteers are asked to bring a sack lunch and have an enjoyable and constructing day at the Center.



ONE REPAIR which Community Center members feel is an absolute must is the repair of this fence which presently has a gaping hole in it.



IF ALL GOES according to schedule Saturday, a new succulent garden will be planted here where only weeds are growing. The tent in the background was used last night for bobbing for apples during the Halloween festivities.

Carmel Valley Village

Up in smoke -- a special breed of man

By EVELYN B. RHOADES

THE GRAY MOHAIR MOUNTAINS are already turning to soft green velvet although our rainy season has just begun. Those of us who garden, now, have the extra time we craved from watering. Maybe a few of us even delight in lazy minutes to reflect on the men in our lives we have loved. It's Fall in Carmel Valley and, where fires are allowed, the drifting smell of burning leaves sets us thinking.

In a way it will be sad when this special breed of man disappears from the earth even in the name of ecology and science. His habit is nasty and dirty and unhealty, but we'll be saddened when it no longer exists. This man, the pipe-smoker, lived in every fulfilled woman's life. He lived in the heart of every man or boy, too.

I'd like to remind you of a few though. Some in Carmel Valley.

The first in my life was Santa Claus. Remember the old favorite poem, "Twas the Night Before Christmas"? There our picture books showed a "fat jolly old elf." His "smoke, it encircled his head like a wreath."

Next came "Olde King Cole, the merry olde soul, who called for his pipe --."

These two fat smokers will live forever in the minds of the young at heart.

WHEN I BECAME old enough to write, grandpa, whose name was August, cornered me at the kitchen table of his old salt-box house in Connecticut. Smoking his old German, long-stemmed pipe with the hand painted bowl, he taught me what seemed like a million proverbs. Saying them first in German, he'd stop, puff, and think. The smoke would drift upward while he'd squint his watery blue eyes in thought before he carefully translated to English, such thoughts as, "Tomorrow, tomorrow, not today. That's what lazy people say." Or, "A good beginning and your battle's half won. His desire to fill me with the wisdom of his philosophy was my greatest legacy. He looked like a philosopher with his thin, self-cut, yellow-white hair and long nose. He was solemn and serious. Grandpa never even had a chronic cough, let alone cancer. Until the doctor pronounced him dead in his bed at ninety-four, he'd never been to one.

JAMES ZIEGLER, a famous photographer in Carmel Valley, who also smokes a pipe claims pipe smokers are interesting characters. He said they like to "bat the breeze." He told of a time he was passing through customs and stopped to be examined. He was waved along.

"Say," he paused, "don't you want to examine my bags?"

"I never question a man who smokes a pipe." The customs official again waved him on.

I continued my "batting the breeze" with friendly Sam Corona who then owned the Meat Market at Carmel Village Market. I announced pipe smoking couldn't be injurious to health because Grandpa was so healthy his long life.

Sam's face lit up with his usual big, briendly grin.

"Say! You've heard of Bull Durham?"

"Well, I think so. Didn't they used to chew that?" I asked in my ignorance.

"MAYBE, but I remember Bull Durham on the table in my grandmother's home. Both grandparents smoked it and my grandmother lived to be 113 years old!"

My friend, Barbie Woods, gave me a list of the fellows in the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department who smoked a pipe. Of course, they were all exceptional characters. I hope to do individual profile pieces in a "Know Your Neighbor Better" column in future issues of our "Outlook".

Sadly, I'll miss that handsome young man across the street, Pete Morse, D.V.M. who smokes his pipe so dashingly. He's moving to better things (money -- what else?).

My last love, Len, has at least eight pipes, but his favorite is tooth-marked and beaten from emptying it against the inside of the fireplace. The bowl is getting smaller and smaller. Len doesn't look like a philosopher, or Olde King Cole. Actually, he looks more like Robert Stack, or Mike Conors or Bob Kennedy (our new Carmel Valley Outlook editor who also smokes a pipe at home). Len's a cross between any of the afore mentioned, only better looking, of course.

IN MY FINAL OBSERVATION, all pipe-smokers seem to be deep thinkers. Another observer, I hate to repeat, said pipe-smokers were also poor tippers.

Many of the exceptional characters did smoke a pipe but have given it up. We all know it takes a strong character to "kick a bad habit." One of these strong characters is Lou Allaire. Lou quit smoking about fifteen years ago. He recalls, however, that he wasn't always a good little boy. He remembers when he and a few of his buddies used to get off the school bus and stop at "Rosie's" on the way home and buy corn cob pipes for ten cents. I'm sure Rosie thought they were for blowing bubbles. Right, Rosie? Well, anyhow, then Lou and his friends would go up to the old Robles del Rio Theatre and pick up cigarette butts, tear them open and use the tobacco for their pipes. Tch! Tch!

There are many little things about Lou and his beautiful wife, Ruth, and their family that I'll bet you didn't know and I look forward to telling you in the near future.

So as history and ecologists change the old song from, "Pass the Peace Pipe and Bury the Hatchet" to "Bury the Peace Pipe and Pass the Hatchet," I'll grieve for the lost generation of unique man -- the Pipe Smoker.

MOVIES IN REVIEW

By GALE QUINSEY

Generally speaking, there are two types of adult moviegoers: (1) those who wish merely to be entertained, and count among their favorites such films as "The Sound of Music" and "Love Story," and (2) those who desire more than mere entertainment, and want to be intellectually as well as emotionally stimulated by the films they see. (I'm leaving out the real film freak, who isn't particularly discriminating, and will go see anything and everything, and love them all.)

Those in the first group want, above all, not to have to think, and become very angry or uncomfortable if anything other than their adrenalin or tear ducts are aroused when they see a movie.

"Siddhartha," now playing at Carmel's Village Theatre, will have very little appeal for these people, for not only does it require a great deal of thought on the part of the viewer, but the entire essence of the film deals with how thinking (or not thinking) controls the events of our lives.

The movie is based on the novel by Herman Hesse. Written in 1922, the work has undergone a mild cult-rage among young people, and judging by the turnout at the theatre, the film should be just as popular.

The film is set in India 25 centuries ago, and deals with one man's quest for meaning and relevancy in his life. Restless, eager to see more and know more, Siddhartha (played by a rather handsome and interesting actor named Shashi Kapoor), leaves the confining restrictions of his father's house. With his best friend Govinda in tow, Siddhartha joins a group of wandering ascetics, men who have devoted their lives to self-denial and contemplation.

After some years with the ascetics, the two young men make a pilgrimage to Buddha, and Govinda, so impressed by Buddha's teachings, decides to become one of his followers. But Siddhartha wants no teacher other than life itself, and still restless, still thirsting for self-knowledge, he sets out alone.

Siddhartha meets a beautiful young courtesan, and embarks on a life of lust and materialism, leaving his contemplative life behind him. He obtains a job with a wealthy merchant, covers his body with sweet oils and expensive clothing, indulging all his physical desires, but ignoring his spiritual needs.

The years pass, and Siddhartha gradually becomes disillusioned and disgusted with his way of life. Despite the fact he has fathered a child, Siddhartha leaves his lovely courtesan, leaves the rich merchant and his soft, plush life in the city, and throws himself in the river to escape.

It is at the river that Siddhartha comes to a halt, both physically and spiritually. The turmoil within himself gradually calms, and with it the restless search for truth and meaning. The final scenes find Siddhartha an old man, still living by the river. He has finally achieved inner peace, wisdom and the extinction of self: he has reached Nirvana.

For some reason this film has been given an "R" rating, although why is not very clear. There are few sex-nudity scenes, and these are handled tastefully and almost as art-tableaux. Perhaps if instead of showing a woman's breasts the film makers had shown a man's head being blown off, the film would have been given a "PG" rating. Violence is ok, but nix on sex.

"Siddhartha" is a difficult movie to review; its plot relies on the main character's inner thoughts, philosophies and driving motivations rather than his actions.

But it is beautifully filmed, and recommended for those who wish to exercise their mental muscles. For those who prefer their movies schmaltzie, heart warming and all fluff, I suggest you stay home and watch television.

"Siddhartha" plays nightly at Carmel's Village Theatre, located at Dolores and 7th. For more information phone 624-5341.

The question their audience most frequently asks the Magic Carpet actors is "How does all this happen?" Meaning "Who puts it all together? Who writes it?" Especially after watching something like, say, their "Piggy-Wiggy Boogie" at the Hidden Valley Theater last month.

John Bristol, J.B., who is often a giant or a tortoise or a werewolf but who is also a Viking, a befuddled kind, and a very kindly, very big rabbit, answers "Jim Mairs, the blond dude you saw playing the piano, does it. He's the director. Our Founder." A gleam in Bristol's eye supplied the captial F.

But then he adds "Actually we all do it. And Jim sort of helps us bring it all together. 'Piggy-Wiggy Boogie' first happened one night in a jam session of puns and verbal slapsticks mainly involving the word pig. Jim said 'The Three Little Pigs' and we just went at it."

From that bank Jim did mine much of the working script. Then he doubled everything with two handfuls of new tunes -- a score in fact.

"In our new show, opening Nov. 9", Mairs said, "there is no question who did it. Children did it. The very children we play for and play with at schools around here."

"The Laughing Place," the Magic Carpet's next production, will present a series of "plays or, maybe, whatever" by several very young authors at Marina Vista and Santa Catalina Schools. It is an experiement the Magic Carpet first tried last spring that amounts to an innovation.

Mairs has selected five of more than a hundred little plays, stories, and poems that the MAGIC CARPET has collected this year from children or their teachers.

"We uphold the value of the children's 'scripts' as we receive them," says Mairs. "I don't rewrite them, I only 'voice' them. Then the Magic Carpet, working from this 'voiced' script, goes to work to embody the child's vision on the stage."

Bristol adds "It's far-out to know that these children can entertain their peers -- of whatever age -- with the MAGIC CARPET as the medium or as their spokesmen."

Besides the plays by children, "The Laughing Place" will offer two Br'er Rabbit and Br'er Wolf stories by Joel Chandler Harris, including "The Tar-Baby." Plus a new look at "Rumpelstiltskin" -- seen from Rumpelstiltskin's point of view.

"The Laughing Place" opens a week from Friday, Nov. 9, and runs for two week-ends, through Sunday, Nov. 18. Showtimes are Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m., at the Hidden Valley Theater on Carmel Valley Road, just before the Village. Admission is $1 for children, $2 for adults. Call 659-3115 for reservations.

Kaleidoscope '73 a big success

"Kaleidoscope '73" was a big success, according to members of the Night Owls Chapter of the Children's Home Society.

Held last week-end at the Monterey County Fairgrounds, many exhibitors displayed their wares to benefit the Children's Home Society.

Included in the exhibit were Lock and Mel Van Bibber of Carmel who offered handcrafted pottery; Marie Mahoney of Carmel had a "Beads and Boutique" display; Ursula Swigert presented pressed flowers, framed under glass; Lise Elder Winge displayed gold and silver jewelry as sculpture; Georgia Grothe, John and Barbara Abdon and Naomi Shelton featured hand woven items; and Bits and Pieces, Ltd. of Carmel, with Pat Meyers, Agnes Downes, Jane Ahlvin and Patti Jiminez, displayed driftwood and metal, wood collages, patchwork, crochet and dough art.

A collage, donated by noted Peninsula artist John LaPierre, titled "Cornwall Coast," highlighted a number of raffle items. The Salinas High School Chorale, under the direction of Mr. Merlyn Green and the Salinas High School Brass Ensemble entertained shoppers during the exhibit.

Halloween in Carmel Valley

Watch for buses

Visitors, and Carmelites, driving along Highway 1, present a possible threat to the lives of schoolchildren because, according to Edward Goodrick, director of operations for the Carmel Unified School District's pupil transportation department, "people don't know which lights to look for ... or don't care."

Flashing red lights on school buses mean motorists have to stop to let children cross the road in front of the bus.

Oftentimes the warning signals are ignored.

To combat the situation, bus drivers are compelled to drive to the end of the route, turn around, and then stop on the right side of Highway 1 before letting the children off.

"The only way to alleviate this problem is to try to eliminate all red-light stops. This has been done along Carmel Valley Road, where it takes only an extra 10 or 15 minutes to turn around. But on Highway 1, the bus drivers have to take an extra 20 to 25 minutes to drive the whole route along Highway 1, down to Big Sur before being able to turn around," Goodrick said.

Because the flashing red lights are ineffective, motorists may have to conform to the regulations of other states -- stopping every time a school bus stops, a very impractical move, according to Goodrick.

The California Vehicle Code reads:

"The driver of any vehicle upon meeting or overtaking from either direction any schoolbus equipped with signs as required in this code which has stopped for the purpose of receiving or discharging any school children and displays a flashing red light signal visible from front and rear shall bring such vehicle to a stop immediately before passing the school bus and shall not proceed past the school bus until the red flashing signal ceases operation.

"The driver of a vehicle upon a highway with separate roadways need not stop upon meeting or passing a school bus which is upon the other roadway. The driver of a vehicle need not stop upon meeting or passing a school bus when the school bus is stopped at an intersection where traffic is controlled by a traffic officer or official traffic control signal, or when the school bus is stopped at a place where traffic is controlled by a traffic officer or official traffic control signal.

"Violation of this code will cost the motorist $33."

World Champion Aquamaids in benefit performance

The Santa Clara Aquamaids, world champions of synchronized swimming, will appear in a benefit performance for the local Cypress Swim Club at Monterey Peninsula College Pool on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, Nov. 3 and 4 at 2 p.m.

Terry Andersen, triple gold medalist in the first World Aquatic Championships last month in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, will perform her winning solo for the first time since the world victory, and then join Gail Johnson, dual gold medal winner, to swim their award-winning duet, which has not been performed in this country since returning from the World Championships.

Joining Terry and Gail to swim the team routine entitled "Russian Fireworks" which brought an audience of thousands to their feet for a standing ovation at Belgrade will be teammates Sue Baross, Robin Curren, Jackie Douglass, Dana Moore, Amanda Norrish, and Sue Randell. Without the three gold medals won by this group from Santa Clara, the USA would not have won the World Aquatic Championships, but would have lost to East Germany.

The Aquamaids are veterans of the Cypress Swim Club's annual fund-raising 'Aqua-Spectacular,' having swum in seven during the past nine years. Jackie Douglass will again appear in a mixed duet with Donn Squire, coach of the Cypress Swim Club, and undefeated National AAU Men's Solo Champion. The watershow, which features "champions of the past, present, and future," will include the AAU Region XIII Jr. Olympic 10-and-under age-group championship team from the Walnut Creek Aquanuts, who may in fact steal the show from the world champions. And members of the Cypress Swim Club will perform routines which have won awards for them in local, regional, and national AAU competitions.

Synchronized swimming, one of the fastest growing spectator sports in the world today, is most frequently compared to figure skating and gymnastics, according to Dell Neel, manager of the Cypress Swim Club. "Actually," Neel said, "it is a combination of these two sports with all aquatic sports." It is worth noting that Russia has become very interested, and has approximately 300 athletes now training in synchronized swimming in Moscow alone. The Russian observers at the World Aquatic Championships -- which included all four of the acquatic disciplines, i.e., speed swimming, diving, water polo, and synchronized swimming -- were particularly impressed that the US team won the world title swimming to Russian music, and this fact was promptly reported in the Russian press by Pravda. Also, Russia intends to enter the synchronized swimming competition at the next World Aquatic Championships which will be held in Cali, Columbia, in 1975, and its inclusion in the Olympic Games is imminent.

Tickets for the 'Aqua-Spectacular' are avaiailable from any member of the Cypress Swim Club in addition to ticket outlets in Monterey at Abinante's, in Pacific Grove at Lily Walker Records, and in Carmel at Ashley Travel Agency.

Come and visit us in our new building!

First Baptist

Nelda Barton, pianist, will appear in a concert of classic and sacred music on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 4 in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church, Carmel. The concert will be the first solo recital on the new Steinway concert grand piano of the Church, the gift of Dr. Sal Di Mercurio and Mr. Robert Webb, Church organist.

Nelda Barton began her musical career as a child of four with the encouragement of her father, E.E. Parker, a noted piano technician from the San Francisco area. Her concert career began with the first solo concert at the age of nine, with many appearances since that time, both as soloist and accompanist.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

"IF YOU REALLY want to help a community, get involved with its youngsters" -- typical philosophy of David Redman and one of the many reasons he will be missed by the entire community. He helped over the last few years so many ways.

Associated with the Village branch of the Bank of America until last Wednesday, Dave has been promoted to a Bank of America in Mill Valley -- five times the size of the local bank with a branch in Tiburon under its control.

Dave and his wife have found a home in the south part of Novato -- which is bound to be a big disappointment to their twin sons, Jeremy and Justin who assumed the Holiday Inn where they made their house hunting headquarters were their new permanent quarters. Active as Cub Master for the Valley Cub Scouts; a coach for the Little League Hornets, a member of C.V. Kiwanis, and Chamber of Commerce, Dave leaves friends of all ages who wish him well in his new venture.

And a warm Carmel Valley welcome to Frank Catalano of San Jose who has been named as Dave's replacement. Mr. Catalano has many friends in the area made when he was with the bank on the Peninsula fifteen years ago.

THERE IS EXCITING NEWS down at St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church where Rev. James Brock and his congregation have received word that their FIRST long play stereo record will be released in November. The recording artist is none other than Sister Saint Christopher, the popular Catholic sister who has participated in numerous folk masses at the church. The selections on the recording include religious, folk and popular.

Proceeds from the record sales will benefit the Building Fund at St. Dunstan's and assist Sister Saint Christopher who is enrolled in nursing at Hartnell to obtain her master's degree. Released just in time for Christmas gift giving the records may be purchased at the Thunderbird and other Valley locations to be announced at a later OUTLOOK date.

THE GREAT PUMPKIN AWARD was presented last night in Carmel Valley Village to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Verga in appreciation of their service to the Carmel Valley Community Center. Lou Allaire made the presentation during Valley Holloween festivities. Photo by Randy Chappell.

TWO OF THE SMALLEST and certainly the most enthusiastic Valley-ites to discover the convenience and fun of traveling by air are Kirsten and Kier Buche who recently accompanied their mother, Mrs. Dale Buche on a nine-day trip to Michigan. Gail and the children enjoyed the autumn colors; visited family and friends in Bloomfield Hills in the Detroit area; were guests at the home of her mother, Mrs. Bertha Higgens, and her brother, Michael Higgens, his wife and four children all of Flint.

Special souveniers brought to brothers, Brent, Brock, and Kirk who remained in the Valley to take care of their Dad and their Robles del Rio home were beautiful tail feathers -- bounty from their uncle's fall pheasant hunt.

"AN OLD OAK LEAF CLUSTER" to the 79 young Tularcitos artists who submitted entries in the Poster Contest sponsored by the Carmel Valley Community Center to promote the Center's Halloween Parade and Party. Judges Francois Martin and John Geddis of the Tantamount Theater found their task a difficult one. So excellent were the original ideas and the workmanship. All posters were displayed at Valley businesses.

The coveted first prize watch was won by Leah Scherman. Second place, Regan Scherman was presented with a professional artist's felt pen set, and the third place tie of Dania Ilich and Dori Draper won $2 each. Honorable mentions went to Lori George, Greg Rose and Patty Lord.

MR. AND MRS. ERNEST MARSHALL and children of Rancho Road, enjoyed a recent three-week visit with their house guest, Mrs. Inez Martin, who is Anne's mother. Mrs. Martin has returned to her home in Farmersburg, Indiana.

SHOULDN'T BE ANY CONFUSION when it comes to postal authorities making an address change for Sylvia and Leon Panetta who, with sons, Chris, Carmelo, and Jim have moved from Valle Vista to -- Panetta Road, of course! It's a homecoming for Leon who grew up in the home -- built by his father and mother, Carmelo and Mellino Panetta -- nestled in the famous walnut orchards.

MARY KAYE AND DICK KING who, with sons, Chris, Andy and Matthew recently returned from three years in Singapore were unable to reclaim their Valley home until the present lease expires so they left temporary Valley quarters for temporary town quarters in Carmel. They have taken possessions out of storage and with the arrival of crates from Singapore are presently waist-high in boxes and packing at their new abode in Mission Fields located at 3336 Sycamore.

"AN OLD OAK LEAF CLUSTER" to the Chess Club of Carmel High School who entered a team in last week'end's competition with representatives from all of the high schools in California, and placed sixth. Padres, who included Joe Mello of Carmel and three Carmel Valley boys, John Dally, Eric Hiassen, and Bruce Walsh, were guests of Bruce's brother Kevin on the campus of Harvey Mudd College at Claremont where Kevin is enrolled in math and engineering.

FLAG FOOTBALL RESULTS

"THE RAIDERS ROLL ON" (in fact "up and over" the Cowboys 27-0 in last Saturday's game) according to Herb Reuter, coach of the Tularcitos Flag Football program sponsored by the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center.

The following highlights of last week's play were jotted during the league games by Coach Reuter: "The Raiders followed excellent blocks by Brent Buche, Marcus Arana, and Jeff Tehan, opened the scoring on a 20-yard sweep around left end by Matt Nottenkamper. Buche on the same play pattern scored the extra point.

"The Cowboy defensive unit in the second quarter led by Donald Azcarate repeatedly stopped the Raiders advances during this period. But in the opening moments, the tenacious Raider offense moved the ball from mid-field on a Nottemkamper-to-Brent Buche pass combo, and then scored after two successive sweeps by Nottenkamper.

"A third quarter defensive duel pitting Don Williams, Chris Panetta, Don Ascarate, Todd Holley, and Ron Scholink of the Cowboys against Walt Reuter, Kent Nuybaken, Kurt Bucke, and Randi Paik caused play to sustain between respective 20-yard markers.

"Matt Nottenkamper, trapped on his five-yard line in the final quarter, tossed a desperation heave to Brent Buche, who then eluded Todd Halley and Kevin Sorri and raced for the Raiders 3rd toughdown. The conversion was no good due to Ron Scholink's fine defensive play.

"The Raiders on a razzel Dazzel play-pass to Ward Crane and lateral to Randy Paik set up the final tally of the game.

"TONY ROWEDDER was Player of the Day in a Broncos 2-0 victory over the Tigers. During the first quarter, Tony Rowedder and Tracy Parks were the outstanding defensive players for the Broncos while Brad Tucker and Danny Farrel were the Tigers principal defenders.

"Mike Colvin dropped Brian Pearson for a 10-yard loss in the second quarter followed by a pass by Ron Cloyd blocked by Chris Deoudes giving the Broncos excellent field position, but the Tiger defense held off the late drive.

'Again the defense of both teams prevented penetration during the third quarter. Tracy Parks and Louie Casarez of the Tigers contained Barry Powell and Shake of the Broncos while Bobby Zoellin and Rod Anderson held David Busick and Brian Pearson.

"The Broncos broke through to the Tigers five-yard line in the last quarter but their defense prevailed and the Tigers took over. On the first play from scrimmage, Pearson was trapped in his end zone by Tony Rowedder for a 2-point safety, putting the Broncos out in front."

The ball players are always delighted to have Saturday morning spectators. Drop by and take a look at the future football stars of Carmel High.

CLEAN-UP DAY

A FIRE IN THE CV Lions Club-built barbecue at the Carmel Valley Community Center will be touched off early Saturday morning for the benefit of all the workers expected for the CVCYC Clean-Up Day.

You are invited to bring a lunch and spend the day helping Center board members wish the Center a happy birthday and get it ready for winter.

It was just 20 years ago Saturday that the first shovel full of dirt was turned at the present site making a dream a reality for the many Valley-ites who had worked long and hard to provide just such a Community gathering spot.

Please bring shovels, rakes, hoes, wheel barrows, cartons, paper bags -- and a friend to share the list of chores outlined by the board. And don't forget hot dogs or something to cook during the lunch break at the Lions Club barbecue pit.

See you Saturday -- ya'all come.

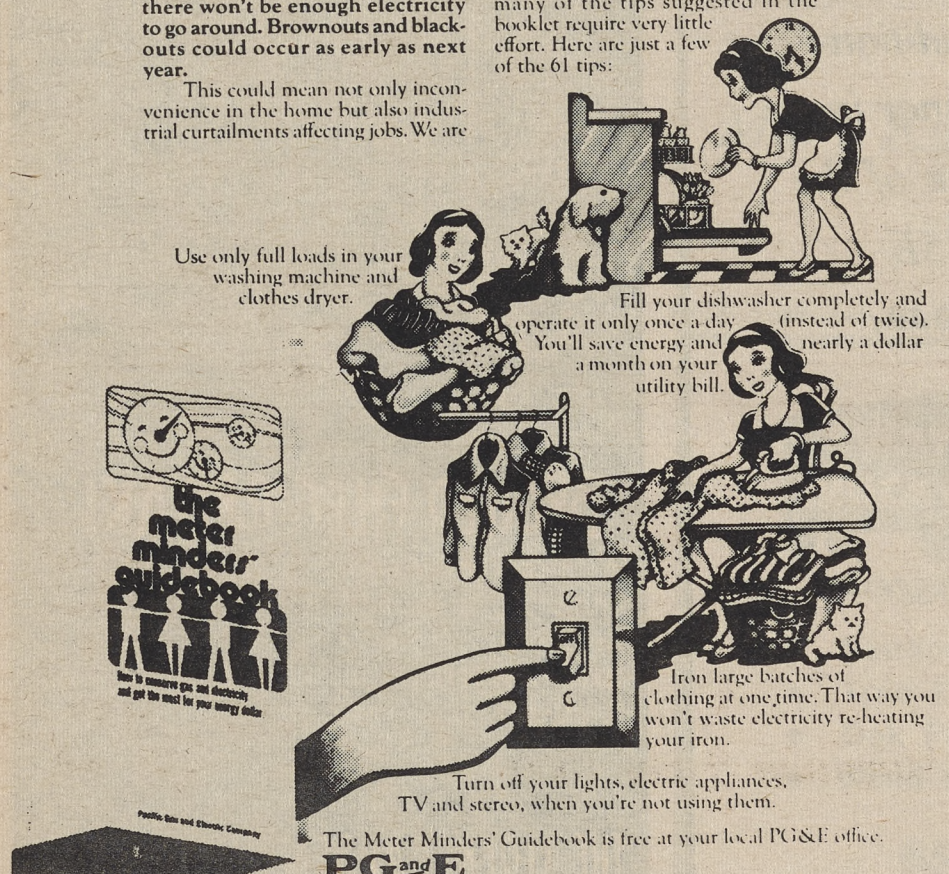
HOW TO HELP CONSERVE ENERGY:

FREE PG&E BOOKLET OFFERS 61 MONEY-SAVING TIPS.

The energy pinch is on. So we are urgently requesting that our customers make a concentrated effort to conserve all the electricity they can. Although our power plants currently have the capacity to meet demands, we are facing a critical fuel supply problem. If we can't get enough fuel to operate our power plants at the necessary capacity, there won't be enough electricity to go around. Brownouts and blackouts could occur as early as next year.

This could mean not only inconvenience in the home but also industrial curtailments affecting jobs. We are working with business and industry to help them cut their energy use without interfering with their operations. But there are also ways you can help reduce energy use in the home:

By following the suggestions offered in our free "Meter Minders' Guidebook" you can help in the conservation effort and also save money on your household PG&E bill. And many of the tips suggested in the booklet require very little effort. Here are just a few of the 61 tips:



Use only full loads in your washing machine and clothes dryer.
Fill your dishwasher completely and operate it only once a day (instead of twice). You'll save energy and nearly a dollar a month on your utility bill.
the meter minders' guidebook
Iron large batches of clothing at one time. That way you won't waste electricity re-heating your iron.
Turn off your lights, electric appliances, TV and stereo, when you're not using them.

The Meter Minders' Guidebook is free at your local PG&E office.

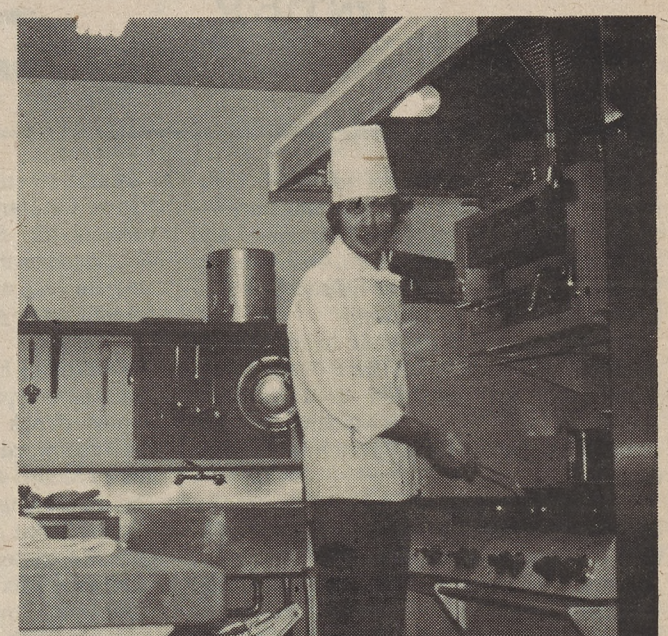
SOUTH SEAS adventure in dining...on Old Cannery Row - that is what is in store for you at the Mark Thomas' Outrigger. There are many delightful Polynesian delicacies to choose from, but one of the more exotic is the Mongolian Fire Pot, originated with Genghis Khan. It is reported that he and his warriors conquered half the world while eating Fire Pot cookery! The Fire Pot is brought to your table, where the succulent viands are prepared and served. First you choose from two gourmet combinations: beef, lamb, chicken and shrimp or shrimp, abalone, sole and squid. Also included are imported bean thread, Chinese cabbage, mushrooms, bean curd, bamboo shoots, and seven exotic sauces.

THE COZY ATMOSPHERE of The Carriage House, with its fireplace and the soft glow of candlelight, makes it an ideal spot for private parties, as well as for your own night out for dinner. There is a special treat for private parties at The Carriage House ... English Roast Beef Au Jus with Yorkshire Pudding. If you have a group that is planning a holiday party, now is the time to make reservations. Lore invites you to keep up with the tradition of Thanksgiving Dinner at The Carriage House ... the feast will be served from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Thanksgiving Day.

THE COLORFUL DECOR of The Clock Garden Restaurant is just one of its unique features. The sunburst mosaic patterned fountain, the collages over several of the walls and the precariously balanced bottles all complement each other in the total decor. The new dinner menu has some outstanding entrees and featured this week is the Broiled Filet Teriyaki ... a thick, hearty, choice filet of young beef immersed in an exotic potion of sherry, soy, onion and ginger root -- then charcoal broiled to tender, succulent perfection. Reservations for dinner are recommended for this very popular restaurant.

THIS IS THE last week to catch the exciting Briley and Branch Trio with Jeff Gilkinson now performing at Capn's Hook Lounge in the Holiday Inn, Monterey. This group definitely has charisma -- they are terrific crowd pleasers and manage to include a large number of audience participation numbers. Be sure to hear Judy Branch sing "Sad Little Girl" -- one of her best solos. The groups "Break My Mind" has an excellent rock beat. One of the outstanding features is the third member's ability on the cello..Jeff Gilkinson presents a beautiful accompaniment to many of the numbers.

WHETHER YOU ORDER a la carte or one of the deluxe dinners, the Mission Ranch has some excellent choices for you. A la carte choices include the ranchburger, cheese or ham omelette and a basket of French fried prawns among other things. The deluxe dinners include such entrees as English lamb chops, eastern prime top sirloin steak, prime rib of beef au jus broiled rock lobster tails and filet tips saute. Don't forget the sing-a-longs at the Mission Ranch ... here you can sing like you used to only in the shower!



FEATURED THIS WEEK is Chef Felix Roux of the Chez Felix restaurant on the third floor of Cannery Row Square. Steeped in the best traditions of the finest of French cuisine, Felix is truly a master of his art. Watching him prepare something like Medallions de Veau Belle-Epoque is truly an experience in itself. Felix was born in Provence, France, where his father still owns a restaurant in Toulon. Felix was apprenticed in restaurants all over France before emigrating to America. His charming wife, Annie is your hostess and together they present a perfect duo for a complete dining experience.

Final rites held for Patrick Berta

A Requiem Mass was held yesterday at Sacred Heart Church, Salinas for Patrick C. Berta. Burial followed at the Queen of Heaven Cemetery, Salinas.

Mr. Berta, a prominent Carmel Valley rancher, and member of a pioneer Valley family, was killed last Friday when the tractor on which he was riding slid down a canyon and rolled over him.

Mr. Berta, 60, was born on the Berta Ranch which his family settled after emigrating from Switzerland and Italy in the late 1870s.

According to highway patrol reports, Mr. Berta was clearing brush on a slope about 2 p.m. when the accident occurred. He was pronounced dead at the scene. He was working on the Stephen Kahn Ranch near Southbank Road at the time of the fatal mishap. The body was taken to Muller Mortuary in Salinas.

The Berta family presently owns a 2,2000-acre ranch in Carmel Valley, and also have land holdings in San Benito County in the Fremont Peak area.

A lifelong resident of the Carmel Valley area, Mr. Berta was a member of the National Rifle Association and a member of the Monterey County Cattlemen's Association.

He is survived by his wife, Edith of the family home; a daughter, Patricia Ann Hall, San Jose; a son, James of Columbia Falls, Mont.; six brothers, Joe of Hollister, Sisto and Atillo, both of Dos Palos, Leo and Lawrence of Carmel Valley, and Ray of Lodi; four sisters, Esther Berta, Dos Palos, Anchilla Berta, Carmel Valley, Mrs. Candida Martella, Greenfield and Mrs. Anne Tacchi of San Raphael, and seven grandchildren.

Contributions may be made to Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Carmel Valley.

MISSION ALTAR SOCIETY

The regular meeting of the Carmel Mission Altar Society will be held on Thursday, Nov. 8 at 2 p.m. in the library of the school.

Jerry Winters will give a demonstration of table decorations.

The hostesses will be Mrs. Charlyn Hermes, Mrs. Richard Carr, Mrs. Albert Stevens, and Mrs. Charles Schonne.

Sand Castle contest nears

This year's Great Sand Castle Contest of Carmel should prove to be exciting because on Nov. 4, the day of the contest, the tide will be coming in rather than going out which has been the case in past years. Low tide will be at 9:08 a.m. and high tide will be at 4:30 p.m. The good news is that a difference of only eight tenths of a foot is predicted between low and high tide.

A special award for this 12th annual sand-stacking event will be presented to the entry best depicting the evasive phrase, "At this point in time, to the best of my recollection." The contest is sponsored by the Monterey Bay Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. The ten Sand Judges will be selected from member architects plus visiting architects here for the California Council American Institute of Architects annual conference.

The requirements for participation are simply a bucket, a shovel, an unlimited amount of energy and whatever imagination one can muster. The judges will disregard the age and competence of the competitors and rely completely on personal fancy for the selection of the winners. Participants will be registered at their projects and judging will begin at 2 p.m.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Categories: Novice Sand Pile - 25 awards; Advanced Sand Box - 15 awards; One Grand Prize; At That Point in Time to the Best of My Recollection Award; Sour Grapes Award (worst loser).

Twelfth Annual Great Sandcastle Contest of Carmel

- 300 to 400 entries are expected.
- People of any age may enter.
- No entry fee, etc.
- No experience or qualifications are required.
- No rules except - Don't dig holes deep enough to hurt anyone and the use of motorized equipment on the Carmel Beach requires a city permit.
- Please leave dogs at home or keep them on a tight leash - they can destroy several hours work in seconds.

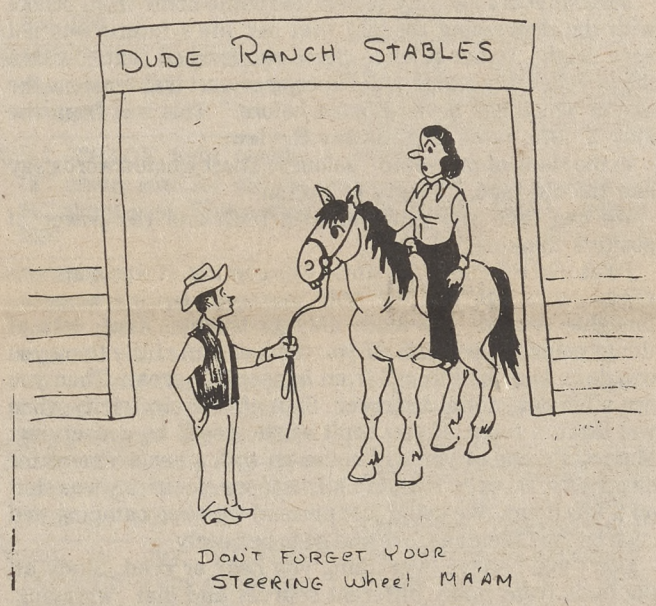
Feedbag

by Lucy Smithson

(This week's Feedbag column is written by Donna Bilbeisi, who has operated Jacks Peak Stable for eight years. Lucy Smithson will be back after Halloween.)

RIDING STABLES are one of the most interesting places to work, though I must admit it can also be one of the most irritating. You never know what you will be facing during the day ahead; an injured or sick horse; trails blocked by fallen trees; a group of happy children on a field trip, or a 'real' cowboy who just can't remember which side to mount from. It's a three-ring circus from dawn to dusk.

There are of course riding lessions to be given. Usually these go well, however there can be some exceptions.



Parents are one of the big problems in lesson giving. They all want their children to ride like professionals, which is great, in fact, what the world needs is more excellent riders. The only trouble is, the children are only 4 years old. They can't concentrate for more than 10 minutes at a time, let along control a 500 to 1000 pound pony or horse. Naturally the child is supposed to be cantering around the arena or trails bareback and jumping over four-foot jumps at the end of four lessons.

SOME CHILDREN learn faster than others. They are the bright exceptions that make an instructor's day complete. The ones that try so hard and do so well, their instructor is convinced they will be riding in the Olympics in future years.

Not everyone is a born rider, but, with practice anyone can acquire enough proficiency at controlling a horse to enjoy a nice trail ride safely.

Many humorous things have happened over the past years. One of the cutest was the time an instructor, having spent several lessons discussing colors of horses, asked the class of seven-year-olds to each tell what the horse was they were riding. A pair of twins who were mounted on Pintos thought and thought. One finally said "It's like a kind of a car." Her sister jumped up and down yelling, "I know, it's a Datsun!!" Not too far off at that!

Many stable riders are military boys, which are more often than not our biggest problem of all. They are the ones who seem to think they know it all, and the only way to prove you are a good rider is to run your horse constantly, returning him dripping wet and ready to drop. Never a thought about cooling the animal off or walking him dry, not even a pat on the neck.

Of course these boys all claim to be born and raised on ranches; know all there is to know about horses; their care, etc. Most have been riding since they were out of diapers, but watch out if they help you unsaddle because nine out of 10 will uncinch the wrong side of the saddle or just drop the saddle in the dirt.

Then comes the riders who mount with the right foot first and end up facing the wrong way. Or, the ones who, to get the horses moving, start shaking the reins at them. Children very often sit and rock back and forth, as if riding on their rocking horse at home.

Some people think the saddle horn is equal to a steering wheel. They latch on to the horn and don't let go until the ride is over. Which is usually pretty soon. In fact about as long as it takes for the horse to realize he's got a free rein.

NO MATTER how ugly or ill put together a horse is someone will think he's the most beautiful horse in the world.

We receive many calls from people wanting to buy a horse usually described as beautiful, well mannered, spirited, sound, well trained, young, registered Arab or Thoroughbred around $150.00 to $200.00. But, don't we all!

CARMEL VALLEY GARDEN CLUB

By DIDI MAYNARD

With skies clouding up, roses and annuals fading, all is not lost for here come the chrysanthemums. This symbol of autumn and immortality, according to Oriental lore, comes in such a variety of shapes and colors, who can have too many?

The chrysanthemum is the imperial flower of Japan. Various designs of it are traditionally used on Japanese Mancho, the family crests and coats of arms dating from the eleventh century. It is also the theme of many Haiku autumn poems. The four season scrolls and plates are decorated with it.

No more is the flower seasonal except in our own gardens. Did you know that feverfew and marguerites are also chrysanthemums? Feverfew reseeds itself everywhere with its welcome fine-cut foliage and heads of little white gold-centered flowers.

And what easier flower than the chrysanthemum to propagate? In June it is cut to the ground. Tip cuttings taken at this time, dipped in hormone powder and put in a flat will root in three weeks. The plants are then transplanted in the garden or pots and will blossom the same year to keep or give to friends. Their keeping quality is excellent, cut flower or plants. It only requires lots of moisture (soaking in water overnight every few days works well) and not too direct sunlight. When it finishes blossoming in about two months it can be cut to its base and planted in the garden.

The cold, fresh smell of chrysanthemums can bring memories of football games, snow and beauty. Long live our interest and joy in its cultivation.

The next meeting of the Carmel Valley Garden Association will be held on Nov. 8 at 8 p.m. in Rooms 15 and 16 of the Tularcitos School. Our guest speaker will be Mr. Irwin T. Johnson, who is a retired military and civilian engineer, but whose lifetime hobby has been trees. He is a former President of the California Arborists Association, and is a member of the International Shade Tree Conference. His address will be: "The Broad Aspects of Choosing, Using and Preserving Garden and Yard Friends." Refreshments and social hour will follow. The public is invited.

Columnist to speak on beauty

Monique Benoit will talk on "Beauty and Body Tone" to the Carmel Women's Club on Monday, Nov. 5.

Ms. Benoit, who was a fashion model in Paris and New York, was trained in skin care and makeup. She conducts beauty seminars in which she demonstrates the value of good eating habits and proper exercise.

She is well known for columns to the "lovelorn" in the San Francisco Examiner and "Monique's Daily Date" in the San Francisco Chronicle. For five years she was a judge in the Miss California Beauty Pagent.

Following the talk, tea will be poured by Mrs. John A. Caldwell and Mrs. K. Eide.

Hostesses for the day will be Miss Elizabeth White, Miss Effie Theobald, Mrs. D.L. Staniford, Mrs. Merwin Fair, Mrs. Margaret Wilson, and Mrs. C.H. Taggert.

GRANDMA SEZ

By EVELYN RHOADES

..EDITORS NOTE: As a new columnist of the "Carmel Valley Outlook," I eagerly look forward to serving my readership. Two columns will be my first endeavors. "Grandma Sez-" by E. Rhoades, is for the young people. It will give the opportunity for youth to be heard. There is a time when kids want to be independant and parents feel their kids won't communicate. Instead they talk off their steam to other kids and sometimes get the wrong answers. Perhaps they'd just like to get a point across to the older generation, and through "Grandma Sez-" they'll have a chance. It should be a stimulating column. Grandma will research her answers that require professional type answers, and add a bit of common horse sense of the old time grandmother. This grandma is almost half a century years old and has a few good thoughts under her skull, besides she has five great children and thirteen grandchildren, has been a den mother, Sunday school teacher, Girl Scout Leader, and Youth Fellowship Director.

The other column will be concerned with "Knowing Your Neighbor Better" and will contain little known secrets of our favorite Carmel Valley-ites.

To: Our Men and Women of Tomorrow.

Eventually, this will be your column (read introduction) so your letters, on any subject upon which you want to be heard, or would like advice, will be the action here. Write to "Grandma Sez-" General Delivery, Carmel Valley, Calif. 93924.

I'm old enough to have a son, 30, and a daughter, 16, so I'm where the action is. Right? WRITE!!!

This week, Grandma Sez, "Don't let yourself get up-tight."

Several years ago, my 16-year-old came home from school with the depressing thought that her life's future was not very bright. In her science class, she learned that, "within thirty years this planet will experience survival tensions the like of which has never existed before." This was from the May 2, 1970, issue of Saturday Review.

In the slang of my youth - baloney. Those quoted words say like the old tune, "Plenty of Nothin'."

We can face any problem with faith and the power of positive thinking.

I was told the end of the world was coming. It was nonsense thirty years ago and it's still nonsense. Letting negative thoughts possess you leads only to trouble. True, lots of things could happen but...If you think of some little thing you can do to keep bad things from happening, great! Then you are a builder, not a destroyer. Shut off the electricity when you leave a room. If you don't waste, you'll be conserving. Meanwhile one of you will come up with a replacement for electricity. It really wouldn't kill us if our electricity was shut off a few hours. We could just pretend we were camping and cook on the Coleman stove and go to bed early.

Don't you believe everything you hear or read. Study all the facts from many different sources and quit worrying. Some folks are so worried about tomorrow they never enjoy a today. It's o.k. to be aware of what's happening. Then use your energy to improve the situation. Build your faith, whatever that may be, for that is where your future lies.

In the words of the age-old "Gloria Patria" remember "As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be, world without end. A-men. A-men."

What one thing is there about your parents that irritates you most? Write, or phone me at 659-2071 and I'll keep your name a secret and write about your pet peeve, and I'll answer it, if possible in next week's issue of The Outlook.

ANNOUNCES
NEW SAVINGS RATES
EFFECTIVE NOVEMBER 1st

Now, more than ever before, an insured savings account at Monterey Savings is your best buy in today's market. Congressional mandate now allows us to offer higher and more competitive rates and Monterey Savings is pleased to offer these new higher rates in a simplified form. Now it's easier than ever to choose the rate that's right for you!

Our Regular Passbook Account offers higher interest on your savings than ever before with complete and unrestricted deposit and withdrawal flexibility and interest is compounded daily from the day you make your deposit to the day you take it out.

6 1/2%

Higher interest than ever before, this new Savings Certificate requires a minimum deposit of $1,000 with a term of one year or more.*

6 3/4%

Even higher yet, this Savings Certificate has a minimum deposit of $1,000 with a term of two and a half years.*

The highest interest Savings Certificate ever offered by Monterey Savings, this program requires a minimum deposit of $1,000 and has a term of four years.*

*Early withdrawals are permitted, however Federal Regulations require a rather severe penalty of 90 days interest be withheld and all interest paid since the opening of the Certificate Account will be adjusted to earn the passbook rate being paid at the time of the withdrawal. Please allow us to assist you in selecting any of the above high yield Savings Certificates.
